—Message from KINFOLK—

KINFOLK Magazine is a quarterly print publication based in Portland, Oregon. The magazine is about inspiring creative individuals to discover things to cook, make and do. We feature many photo series, recipes, essays and lists on the subjects of food, community, family, friends, traditions and understanding the world around us. Nathan and Katie Williams are the couple who started KINFOLK, which has now grown to a small team of around 12 people. To create our magazine, we call on over 50 different contributors every issue to take photographs, write essays, style photo shoots, bake cakes and much more. KINFOLK could not happen every 3 months without the support of these contributors, and the support of our readers. The show's title, "KINFOLK: The Shared Table", represents our attitude towards collaborating with photographers, writers, stylists, chefs and many more people from around the world. We hope that reading an issue of KINFOLK feels like sitting down at our dinner table and sharing this experience with others internationally. The show's two featured photographers, Carissa Gallo and Laura Dart, have been with KINFOLK right from the very start. They are still very important parts of KINFOLK and are some of our closest friends.

KINFOLK magazine and other exhibition souvenirs will be available to purchase during the show at Diesel Art Gallery.

BIOGRAPHY

KINFOLK

www.kinfolk.com

Kinfolk is a growing community of artists with a shared interest in small gatherings. We recognize that there is something about a table shared by friends, not just a wedding or once-a-year holiday extravaganza, that anchors our relationships and energizes us.

We have come together to create Kinfolk as our collaborative way of advocating the natural approach to entertaining that we love.

Every element of Kinfolk the features , photography, and general aesthetics are consistent with the way we feel entertaining should be: simple, uncomplicated, and less contrived. Kinfolk is the marriage of our appreciation for art and design and our love for spending time with family and friends.

Carissa Gallo

www.carissagallos.com

Carissa Gallo is a photographer from Portland, Oregon. Her fascination with the ocean, wrinkles, and normal days inspire her to use a camera daily. She and her husband, Andrew, own a company called Sea Chant in which they partner with like minded brands and companies to tell their stories- creatively and visually. Beyond these pursuits, you might find Carissa with Andrew and their two kids taking walks, driving to the coast, or reading books.

Laura Dart

Even before she was a photographer, she was a traveler. From roadtrips across states, to backpacking Europe, to sailing in Greece, this was how and when Laura feels the most herself. To her, the most beautiful things are when the senses are engaged; sights, sounds, and tastes that draw you in at every new destination. It is this same sense of wonder that led Laura to the field of photography. Traveling with a camera heightens the experiences and allows her to connect with people and places in a more intimate way. The inspiring souls she meets on this journey, fuel her desire to create.
